j. Risks arising from potential failure of legal entities in which the Sub-fund holds ownership interests or from which the Fund records receivables.

k. Risks related to the debtor's receivables or creditworthiness and the quality of securing the receivables.

This risk is reduced by a strict selection of experts who monitor the condition and use of the assets and other factors that may affect the value of assets, and who also assess the valuation.

The ETIV Sub-fund's purpose is to increase the value of the owners' investment shares in a long-term by investing in portfolio companies focusing on areas covered by societal challenges and industry leadership as defined in Horizon 2020 (e.g. life sciences, clean energy, IT or technology).

The investments of the ETIV Sub-fund will primarily include portfolio companies with a growth profile with a dominant focus on Internet business, such as marketplaces (SaaS enabled marketplaces) and so-called SaaS business models in B2B, B2B2C and B2C in the following areas: (i) financial technology ("fintech"), (ii) e-commerce, (iii) healthcare technology, (iv) education technology ("edtech"), (v) real-estate and property technology ("proptech") and (vi) other areas where the technology can be used to reduce transaction costs.

In order to reach both short-term and long-term appreciation of the Sub-fund's assets while maintaining an adequate risk exposure, free funds may also be invested in financial assets. For such investments, the Sub-fund may use for instance money market instruments, e.g. bonds, traded in regulated OECD markets and investment funds focusing on such instruments.

2 Accounting Methods and General Accounting Policies

The financial statements comprising the balance sheet, income statement, statement of changes in equity and the accompanying notes have been prepared in accordance with the Czech Act on Accounting, the Czech Ministry of Finance decrees and the Czech accounting standards for financial institutions.

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Decree of the Czech Ministry of Finance No. 501/2002, in the wording effective as of 1 January 2018, which regulates the layout and definition of financial statement captions and the extent of disclosures for banks and certain financial institutions. In Section 4a(1), the Decree stipulates that for the purposes of recognition, measurement and disclosure of financial instruments, an entity shall proceed in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards regulated by directly applicable regulations of the European Union governing the application of international accounting standards (individually "International Accounting Standard" or collectively "IFRS").
The effects of the Decree No. 501/2002, in the wording effective as of 1 January 2018, were reflected as of 1 January 2021.

These financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention and on the accruals basis of accounting, the only exception being the Sub-fund's assets and liabilities which are revalued at fair value pursuant to Section 196 of the Act on Investment Companies and Investment Funds.

The financial statements are based on the assumption that the entity will continue as a going concern and that there is no circumstance that would restrict or prevent the entity's ability to continue as a going concern in the foreseeable future.

All figures are in CZK thousands unless stated otherwise.

These financial statements are standalone statements.

The significant accounting policies and methods applied in preparing these financial statements were as follows:

2.1 Foreign Currency Translation

Foreign currencies are translated to Czech crowns at the daily exchange rate published by the Czech National Bank (ČNB) as at the transaction date or the transaction recognition date. During the year, only realized foreign exchange gains and losses are accounted for.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated to Czech currency using the foreign exchange rate announced by the Czech National Bank as at the balance sheet date. The resulting exchange rate gains or losses from the translation of foreign denominated assets or liabilities are charged or credited, as appropriate, to income for the year as "Gains or losses from financial operations". The gain or loss on the translation of ownership interests is recognized in Gains or losses on revaluation for the year ended 31 December 2021. In the case of the gain or loss on the translation of financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income, the exchange rate difference is recognized under liabilities as "Gains or losses on revaluation".

2.2 Transaction Recognition Date

Depending on the type of transaction, the recognition dates are as follows:

- the date on which money in circulation is paid or received,
- the date on which foreign currency or securities are purchased or sold,
- the date on which a payment is made,
- the date on which (foreign) currency is credited based on a report received from the Fund's correspondent (the report shall mean a SWIFT report, the Bank's notification, a received medium, an account statement or other documents),
- financial assets and liabilities are recognized when the Sub-fund becomes a party to the transaction.

Financial assets and liabilities are recognized according to the settlement date outside the spot purchases and sales of related currency conversions that are recognized on the trade date.

The following rules apply to derecognition of financial assets and liabilities:

- The Sub-fund derecognizes a financial asset or part thereof from the balance sheet if it loses control of the contractual rights to the financial asset or part thereof. Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss and financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income that are sold are derecognized on the trade date.
- A financial liability or a part thereof is extinguished if the obligation specified in the contract is discharged or cancelled or expires and the entity removes the given liability or part thereof from its balance sheet. The difference between the carrying amount of a liability (or a portion thereof) extinguished or transferred and the amount paid for is recognised net in profit or loss for the period.

2.3 Financial instruments

From 1 January 2021, the Sub-fund applies IFRS 9 Financial Instruments to the classification, measurement and impairment of financial assets and financial liabilities.

The classification of Sub-fund's financial assets is based on:

- The business model for managing financial assets;
- The contractual cash flow characteristics of the asset (SPPI – solely payments of principal and interest on the principal outstanding, the "SPPI test").

Business models assess the entity's intention regarding a financial asset, i.e., whether the entity plans to collect contractual cash flows, sell the financial asset or both, or uses another business model. The Sub-fund applies the following business models:

- "Hold and collect" – financial assets at amortized cost (AC);
- "Hold, collect and sell" – financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI);
- „Fair value management" – fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL);

Financial assets at amortized cost
The "Hold and collect" strategy is aimed at holding financial assets in order to collect contractual cash flows. Examples of such financial assets are loans, securities held to maturity, and trade receivables. Breach of the "Hold and collect" model does not occur even if there is a significant increase in counterparty credit risk during the course of the holding of the financial asset and the Sub-fund decided to proceed with the sale of that asset.

This category includes financial assets that meet the SPPI test and are debt instruments.

The "Hold, collect and sell" strategy is aimed at both collecting contractual cash flows from the principal and interest and selling financial assets; the model represents the so called "mixed" business model. This model distinguishes two different types of accounting treatment for equity instruments and for debt instruments.

Financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income
Debt instruments that meet the criteria of the SPPI test in the "hold, collect and sell" business model are measured at fair value through other comprehensive income. When a financial asset is derecognized, the cumulative gain or loss recognized in the balance sheet caption "Gains or losses on revaluation" is reclassified from equity to profit or loss. Expected credit losses are recognized in profit or loss together with foreign exchange differences arising from remeasurement of financial assets denominated in foreign currencies. Interest income is calculated using the effective interest rate and is presented within "Interest income and similar income".

Equity instruments that are not held for trading and where an entity makes an irrevocable election on initial recognition to classify them as financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI) are remeasured through other comprehensive income including FX differences from remeasurement. When this financial asset is derecognized, gain or loss from remeasurement is not reclassified from equity (under "Gains or losses on revaluation") to profit or loss.

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss
The "Fair value management" strategy is used for financial assets included in the portfolio that is managed and whose performance is assessed on a fair value basis. In addition, this category includes financial assets that do not meet the SPPI test, financial instruments acquired for trading, equity instruments that the entity has elected not to classify as financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income, and all derivatives (the category typically includes debt securities, equity instruments and units, derivatives, loans and receivables). Changes in fair values of these assets including FX differences are recognized in profit or loss. These assets are not subject to ECL calculation. The "Fair Value Management" business model does not meet the conditions for classifying financial assets as at amortized cost (AC) and at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI), and financial assets managed under this model must be remeasured to fair value through profit or loss.

Business model assessment
An entity's business model is determined at a level that reflects how groups of financial assets are managed together to achieve a particular business objective. Accordingly, financial instruments are classified at a higher level of aggregation, i.e., at the portfolio level. The entity considers all relevant information and evidence which is available at the assessment date. The information and evidence considered includes, inter alia, the following:

- The stated policies and objectives for the portfolio and the operation of those policies in practice. In particular, whether entity's strategy focuses on earning contractual interest revenue, maintaining a particular interest rate profile, matching the duration of the financial assets to the duration of the liabilities that are funding those assets, or realizing cash flows through the sale of the assets;
- How the performance of the portfolio and of the financial assets held within this business model is evaluated and reported to the entity's key management personnel;
- The risks that affect the performance of the business model and of the financial assets held within this business model, and how those risk are managed;
- How managers of the entity are compensated, e.g., whether compensation is based on the fair value of the portfolio of the financial assets managed or the contractual cash flows collected;
- The frequency, volume and timing of sales in prior periods, the reasons for such sales and expectations about future sales activity. However, information about sales activity is not considered in isolation but as part of an overall assessment of how the entity's overall objective for managing the financial assets is achieved and how cash flows are realized.

Assessment whether contractual cash flows are solely payments of principal and interest (the SPPI test)

For the purposes of this assessment, "principal" is defined as the fair value of the financial asset on initial recognition. "Interest" is defined as consideration for the time value of money and for the credit risk associated with the principal amount outstanding during a particular period of time and for other basic lending risks and costs (e.g., liquidity risk and administrative costs), as well as a profit margin.

In assessing whether the contractual cash flows are solely payments of principal and interest, the Sub-fund considers the contractual terms of the instrument. This includes assessing whether the financial asset contains a contractual term that could change the timing or amount of contractual cash flows such that it would not meet this condition. In making this assessment, the Sub-fund considers the following:

- Contingent events that would change the amount and timing of cash flows;
- Leverage features;
- Prepayment and extension terms;
- Terms that limit the entity's claim to cash flows from specified assets;
- Features that modify consideration of the time value of money (e.g., periodical reset of interest rates).

Owing to the nature of the Fund's business and the types of financial instruments it holds, all its financial assets and liabilities are measured at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL) under the "Fair Value Management" business model, with the exception of financial assets in the 'Shares, unit certificates and other interests' category that are measured at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI).

Initial Measurement
Financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value are recognized according to the settlement date outside the spot purchases and sales of related currency conversions that are recognized on the trade date. From the date the Sub-fund commits to purchase these assets, all costs and income arising from changes in the fair values of these assets are recognized in the income statement and other comprehensive income.
As at the settlement date, a financial asset or financial liability is initially measured at fair value, which is adjusted for transaction costs, except for the financial instruments measured at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL).

Measurement
Subsequent to initial recognition, all financial instruments measured at fair value through profit or loss and other comprehensive income are remeasured to fair value.

Gains and losses on subsequent measurement Gains and losses on subsequent measurement of financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are recognized in the income statement under Gains or losses from financial transactions. Gains and losses on subsequent measurement of financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income are recognized under "Gains or losses on revaluation".

Impairment loss on financial assets due to expected credit losses

All of the Sub-fund's financial assets are carried at fair value and, accordingly, the Sub-fund recognizes no impairment losses due to expected credit losses.

Offsetting

Financial assets and liabilities are offset, and the net amount is reported in the balance sheet only when the Sub-fund has a legally enforceable right to offset the recognized amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or to realize the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

2.3.1 Cash and cash equivalents

Cash equivalents of the Sub-fund include cash on hand and deposits with banks payable on demand, treasury bills and government bonds with a residual maturity of three months or less. Cash and demand deposits are measured at their nominal value, which corresponds to their fair value. Treasury bills and government bonds are measured at fair value through profit or loss. Cash and cash equivalents are presented in the 'Due from banks and cooperative savings associations' balance sheet caption.

2.3.2 Securities at fair value through profit or loss

Upon initial recognition, securities are measured at cost (transaction price) that includes direct transaction costs, except for securities measured at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL). If the transaction price differs from the fair value, the security is measured at fair value and the difference is recognized in profit or loss, however only if the fair value is directly determined as the quoted price of an identical asset or determined on the basis of market information. In other cases, the security is measured on the basis of the transaction price.

Securities acquired under the "Fair value management" business model are measured at fair value through profit and loss. Securities measured at fair value through profit or loss are initially recognized at fair value (generally the transaction price) and subsequently measured at fair value. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of a financial asset or financial liability are charged directly to profit or loss. All related gains and losses are included in profit or loss on financial operations. Spot purchases and sales are recognized on the settlement date. The change in the fair value of the security between the trade date and the settlement date is charged to profit or loss on financial operations. Forward transactions are recognized as derivatives. Interest earned on securities at fair value through profit or loss is reported as interest income from securities under the 'interest and similar income' caption.

Securities at fair value through profit or loss are presented under Ownership interests constituting a significant influence and Ownership interests constituting a controlling influence in the accompanying balance sheet.

2.3.3 Securities at fair value through other comprehensive income

Other securities not designated as held-for-trading are classified as securities at fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOIC).
Securities measured at fair value through other comprehensive income are initially recognized at fair value (generally the transaction price) and subsequently measured at fair value. Transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of a financial asset are capitalized. Subsequent changes in the fair value of financial assets measured at fair value through other comprehensive income are reflected in gains or losses on revaluation in equity.
Securities at fair value through other comprehensive income are presented in the balance sheet caption Shares, unit certificates and other participations.

2.3.4 Investment shares issued by Sub-fund

Due to the Sub-fund's redemption obligation, securities issued by the Sub-fund (investment shares) do not meet the principal condition under IAS 32 to be classified as equity instruments and are therefore financial liabilities. However, the conditions set out in paragraphs 16A–16B and 16C–16D also allow certain financial liabilities to be classified as equity instruments.

In accordance with IAS 32, the Sub-fund assessed the nature of the instruments issued by the Sub-fund and concluded that the instruments issued did not meet the additional conditions set out in paragraphs 16A–16B and 16C–16D, respectively, and therefore cannot be classified as equity instruments. Accordingly, the financial instruments issued and any other items relating to the measurement of the net asset shares of investment shares holders are recognized within the Sub-fund's liabilities under "Net assets attributable to holders of investment shares".

These liabilities are measured at the carrying amount of the net assets of the Sub-fund attributable to those investment shares and the change in their value is disclosed in the profit or loss statement under "Change in net assets attributable to holders of investment shares after tax". The items "Net assets attributable to holders of investment shares" and "Change in net assets attributable to holders of investment shares after tax" have been added to the balance sheet and income statement beyond the structure prescribed in Appendix No. 1 of Decree No. 501/2002 Coll., separating the effect of transactions relating to the value of issued investment shares from other operations of the Fund and thus improving the overall clarity of financial statements.

Any profit shares distributed are not dividends in the true sense of the word, but rather a financial charge related to the security issued (i.e., a financial liability that is measured at fair value through profit or loss).

2.3.5 Loans and receivables

The Sub-fund's loans and receivables that meet the definition of a financial asset are measured at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL). Bad debts are written-off after the completion of debtor´s bankruptcy proceedings. Loans and receivables are presented in the 'Receivables from non-banking entities' caption.

2.3.6 Financial liabilities

The Sub-fund classifies its financial liabilities as at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL) if they are contingent consideration recognized by the acquirer in a business combination, are held for trading or are designated as instruments at fair value through profit or loss.

Financial liabilities are classified as held for trading if:

- They have been acquired principally for the purpose of repurchasing them in the near term; or
- On initial recognition they are part of a portfolio of identified financial instruments that the Sub-Fund manages together and have a recent actual patter of short-term profit-taking.

Financial liabilities may be designated as at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL) upon initial recognition if:

- Such designation eliminates or significantly reduces a measurement or recognition inconsistency that would otherwise arise; or
- The financial liability forms part of a group of financial assets or financial liabilities or both, which is managed and its performance is evaluated on a fair value basis, in accordance with the Sub-fund's documented risk management or investment strategy, and information about the grouping is provided internally on that basis; or
- They form part of a contract containing one or more embedded derivatives, and IFRS 9 permits the entire combined contract to be designated as at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL).

All financial liabilities are initially recognized at fair value through profit or loss (FVTPL). Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of a financial liability are charged directly to profit or loss. All related gains and losses are included in profit or loss on financial operations. Subsequent to initial recognition, the method of determining fair value is determined by the Sub-fund's Administrator.

2.4 Other assets and liabilities

Other assets and liabilities consist of receivables and liabilities classified as financial instruments and recognized at fair value in Other assets and Other liabilities.

2.5 Taxes

Current tax expense

The income tax base is calculated using profit for the year before tax adjusted by adding non-deductible expenses and deducting non-taxable income and any tax relief or off-sets.

Value added tax

The Sub-fund is not registered for value added tax (VAT).

Deferred tax

Deferred tax is recognized on all temporary differences between the carrying amount of an asset or liability in the balance sheet and its tax base using the full liability method. A deferred tax asset is recognized to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which this asset can be utilized.

The tax rate applicable for the period in which the deferred tax is expected to be realized is used for the deferred taxation calculation.

Deferred tax arising on the revaluation of hedging instruments and other financial assets at fair value through other comprehensive income is also recorded in equity.

2.6 Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statements requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the balance sheet date and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. The Sub-fund's management prepared these estimates and predictions based on all relevant information available. Nevertheless, these estimates and assumptions may differ from actual future results.

2.7 Changes in Accounting Policies Effective for the Current Period

There were no changes in accounting policies and procedures in 2022.

For the purposes of recognition, measurement and disclosure of financial instruments, since 1 January 2021 the Sub-Fund has followed International Financial Reporting Standards regulated by directly applicable regulations of the European Union governing the application of international accounting standards ("IFRS").

2.8 Subsequent Events

The effect of events that occurred between the balance sheet date and the financial statements date is reflected in the financial statements if these events provide additional evidence of conditions that existed at the balance sheet date.

If, between the balance sheet date and the financial statements date, significant events occurred that are indicative of conditions that arose after the balance sheet date, the effect of these events is not recognized in the financial statements but disclosed in the notes to the financial statements.

2.9 Corrections of Errors of Previous Accounting Periods

Corrections to prior-period expenses or income are posted to expense or income accounts, as appropriate, in the current year unless they represent corrections of material errors.

There were no corrections to previous period errors in 2022 and 2021, respectively.

2.10 Related Parties

The Sub-fund has defined its related parties as follows:
The Fund's key managing persons and their family members, entities controlled or jointly controlled by or under significant influence of these persons or entities or their parent companies in which these persons are members of key management. The statutory director and the Fund's managing persons are considered key managing persons of the Fund.

2.11 Changes in Accounting Policies Arising from Adoption of New and Revised Standards – Impact of Standards and Interpretations Issued but Not Yet Effective

The Fund has considered the use of new standards and interpretations that are not yet effective for the current period but can be early adopted. The new standards and interpretations have not been applied in the preparation of these financial statements.

Annual Improvements – 2018–2021 cycle

(Effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2022, with earlier application permitted.)

i. Amendments to IFRS 9 Financial Instruments

The amendments clarify that in assessing whether an exchange of debt instruments between an existing debtor and a creditor occurred on terms that are materially different, fees included in the discounted present value of cash flows under the new terms may include only fees paid or received between the debtor and the creditor, including fees paid or received by the debtor or creditor on behalf of the counterparty.

ii. Amendments to Illustrative Examples to IFRS 16 Leases

The amendments remove from illustrative example 13, which is an appendix to IFRS 16, both the reference to compensation to the lessee by the lessor for leasehold improvements and the explanation of how the lessee accounts for that compensation.

The Sub-fund does not expect the adoption of the above standards and amendments to existing standards to have a material impact on the Sub-fund's financial statements in future periods.

Explanation Added for Translation into English

These financial statements are presented on the basis of accounting principles and standards generally accepted in the Czech Republic. Certain accounting practices applied by the Company that conform with generally accepted accounting principles and standards in the Czech Republic may not conform with generally accepted accounting principles in other countries.

3.20 Fair Value of Assets and Liabilities

The best indication of an asset's or liability's fair value is provided by unadjusted quoted market prices in an active market. Where such prices are available, they are used to measure the fair value (level 1 of the fair value hierarchy).

In case a market quote is used for valuation but due to restricted liquidity the market does not qualify as active (derived from available market liquidity indicators) the instrument is classified as level 2.

If no market prices are available, the fair value is measured by using valuation models which are based on observable market data. If all the significant inputs in the valuation model are observable the instrument is classified as level 2 of the fair value hierarchy. For level 2 valuations typically yield curves, credit spreads and implied volatilities are used as observable market parameters.

In some cases, the fair value can be determined neither on the basis of sufficiently frequent quoted market prices nor of valuation models that rely entirely on observable market data. In these cases individual valuation parameters not observable in the market are estimated on the basis of reasonable assumptions. If any unobservable input in the valuation model is significant or the price quote/transaction price used is updated infrequently, the instrument is classified as level 3 of the fair value hierarchy. In determining level 3 values, expert opinions using prescribed asset valuation methods (expected cash flows, market development, etc.) and the Administrator's assessment may be used to determine fair value.
Transfers between levels of the fair value hierarchy are expected to occur at the end of the reporting period.

a) Cash and cash equivalents

The fair value approximates their carrying amount. These financial assets are classified within level 2 of the fair value hierarchy.

b) Loans and receivables

The fair value approximates their carrying amount. These financial assets are classified within level 2 of the fair value hierarchy. Convertible loans, which are long-term in nature and belong to level 3, represent an exception within the loans granted.

c) Securities and ownership interests

The fair value of of securities and ownership interests constituting a significant or controlling influence is determined as (i) its market value or the market value derived from the market values of components of the asset or liability, (ii) the value arising from generally accepted valuation models, methods and recommendations (such as the valuation policies published from time to time by Invest Europe as part of the 'Valuation Guidelines'), as long as these yield an adequate estimate of the market value, (iii) the value determined by a qualified expert or an expert's opinion, if the market value is not available. The valuation of securities and ownership interests falls primarily within level 3.

d) Money market instruments

The fair value of short-term deposit is determined as the sum of the principal value and agreed interest accrued as at the valuation date.

e) Securities issued by investment funds

The fair value of security issued by investment funds will be the value of this security announced as at the valuation date.

If the repurchase of security issued by investment fund has been stopped, an investment manager will determine the fair value of this security with reference to an estimate made with due diligence and with the Fund Depositary's consent.

f) Derivatives

Currency forwards are valued using the standard valuation models, such as discounted cash flow models.

Interest rate swaps are valued at fair value using measurement tools available from Bloomberg, according to currently valid methodology of this company and according to practices widely recognized on markets.

g) Loans received

Short-term loans received are usually measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate (EIR) method; given the grant date, the amortized cost is considered to be comparable with the fair value determined on the basis of discounting the expected cash flows. The valuation is classified as level 3.

h) Other assets and liabilities at fair value classified as level 3

Position within level 3 comprises one or more significant inputs, which are not observable in the market. The valuation of the position at fair value is the responsibility of the Fund's Administrator.

a) Currency risk

The Sub-fund takes on exposure resulting from fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates on its financial position and cash flows. The Sub-fund may hold investments in currencies other than its reference currency and their value may therefore rise or fall as a result of changes in exchange rates; adverse movements in exchange rates may result in a loss of capital.

The currency risk is associated with foreign currency transactions and the resulting foreign currency balances. The functional currency of the Sub-fund is CZK and if a transaction is denominated in another currency, it is converted, as are the balances. The Sub-fund monitors exchange rate movements and seeks to eliminate the currency risk by using spot transactions. In addition, the Sub-fund sells and buys investment shares from investors in EUR. Investments in portfolio companies are mainly in USD and EUR. As a result, the currency risk is partially eliminated by natural hedging.

The chart below contains an overview of currency risk exposure. The chart contains assets and liabilities at their book value broken down by currencies and only show selected positions from the balance sheet exposed to currency risk.

Sensitivity analysis of currency risk

An appreciation (depreciation) of the Czech crown (CZK) against the euro (EUR), the US dollar (USD) and the pound (GBP) as at the balance sheet date would increase (decrease) the asset values by the amounts shown in the table below. The analysis quantifies the impact on profit or loss from ordinary activities and on other comprehensive income; it assumes that all other variables, especially interest rates, remain constant. The table shows the impact of the change in the CZK/EUR, CZK/USD and CZK/GBP exchange rates.

	Effect on profit/loss from ordinary activities		Effect on other comprehensive income
In CZK thousands	+5%	(5%)	+5%	(5%)
EUR	(6,194)	6,194	(1,440)	1,440
USD	(6,860)	6,860	(7,565)	7,565

b) Interest rate risk

The Fund takes on exposure resulting from fluctuations of interest rates on its financial position and cash flows. As the Sub-fund has interest-bearing assets and liabilities with mainly short- or medium-term maturity, the interest rate risk was assessed as insignificant.

The chart below contains an overview of interest rate exposure; interest-bearing assets and liabilities at book values are broken down by the earliest of the maturity date or interest rate change.

c) Price Risk

A financial institution's risk management policies and objectives for price risk include identifying, measuring, monitoring and managing the impact of price fluctuations on financial instruments. Any significant changes in risk management policies or strategies are disclosed, along with concentrations of price-related risk, such as exposures to specific market segments or geographic regions. These qualitative information provides transparency on the Sub-fund's approach to risk management and allows for a better understanding of its exposure to price risk. The values of risk parameters change at least on a yearly basis (or more often), subject to changes in markets and changes in expectations of regulators (the Czech National Bank).

Due to fact that the assets/liabilities of the Sub-fund are measured at fair value through profit or loss or through other comprehensive income, the sensitivity analysis documents the change in the value of investment instruments affecting the net assets attributable to the holders of investment shares. The Sub-fund manages price risk through regular monitoring of portfolio investments. Based on an evaluation of this information, the Sub-fund eliminates price risk by reacting in a timely manner to any significant changes.

3.22.2 Liquidity Risk

The liquidity risk involves a risk that the Sub-fund will be unable to duly and timely meet its financial liabilities. The Fund's internal policy stipulates the minimum amount of liquid assets necessary to cover satisfaction of liabilities falling due and settlement and contains a liquidity crisis management plan.

The following chart contains a breakdown of assets and liabilities according to maturity bands based on remaining maturity as at the FS date. The chart only contains selected assets and liabilities carried at undiscounted book values broken down according to the earliest of the settlement, valuation or maturity date.

3.22.3 Credit Risk

The credit risk involves a risk of a counterparty failing to meet its liability to the Sub-fund. In the period under review, the Sub-fund had receivables from middle-term loans provided to portfolio and group companies where the Sub-fund has detailed information available on their financial position and the structure of their assets and liabilities. The maximum exposure to credit risk on financial assets corresponds to their fair values recognized in the balance sheet.
Concentrations of positions may expose the Sub-fund to losses, even though economic and market conditions may be generally favourable in a particular industry or sector. By industry breakdown, the Sub-fund has significant equity exposure to advanced technology companies. Concentration of risk can occur not only within an industry but also within transactions with a given counterparty. By country, the Sub-fund concentrates its claims vis-à-vis non-banking entities mainly in the United States of America (see Note 3.2). The Sub-fund has assessed that the convertible loans granted do not pose a credit risk.

3.22.4 Operational Risk

The operational risk involves losses incurred as a result of inadequate or failed internal processes or people or caused by external events. Operational risk is managed by adequate setup of the Fund's internal processes and selection of external parties.

In the period under review, there were no significant operational risk events that would have a significant impact on the Sub-fund's results, i.e. an impact exceeding 1% of equity.

3.22.5 Sensitivity Analysis

The Sub-fund performs, at specified intervals, a sensitivity analysis of funds, mainly in the form of stress testing. The Risk Management is responsible for setting the values of risk factors, both external and internal, of stress testing. A primary purpose of stress testing is to simulate even unlikely events with a negative effect on capital position and to document the resilience of the Sub-fund against the changes in market and economic conditions. The values of risk parameters change on a yearly basis, subject to changes in markets and changes in expectations of regulators (the Czech National Bank).
Due to fact that the assets/liabilities of the Sub-fund are measured at fair value through profit or loss or through other comprehensive income, the sensitivity analysis documents the change in the value of investment instruments affecting the net assets attributable to the holders of investment shares.

3.23 Subsequent Events

The Sub-fund's management has analyzed the potential impact of changing micro and macroeconomic conditions on the company's performance, financial position and operations and has not identified any effect on the going concern assumption or any significant impact on the Sub-fund's financial position or operations with respect to this situation as of the date of the financial statements.

In view of the above, the financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2022 were prepared on the assumption that the Sub-fund would be able to continue as a going concern.
